Archbishop Charles Scicluna is the Archbishop of Malta and is widely experienced in investigating and prosecuting the most serious allegations of clerical sexual abuse. He is known for his ability to 'articulate the most complex and obscure articles of faith in a clear and very down-to-earth manner' and for his compassion towards survivors of clerical abuse.

One Chilean survivor said, "I've been telling my story and dealing with church officials forever; it was the first time I felt empathy."

'It is important for the shepherd to listen to his flock and not limit himself to ordering it about. The faithful are together on this journey and just like a shepherd with his flock, sometimes one needs to trust the flock that they know the way.'
